A PENCIL SKETCH OF EDDY'S ASSEMBLIES.

There was a school of revelry, by night, And Belgium's capital had gathered there. Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright The lamp shone o'er fair women and brave men; A thousand hearts beat happily; and when Music arose with its voluptuous swell, Soft eyes look'd love to eyes which spake again; And all went merry as a marriage-bell.

Byron. Last Thursday evening, we attended another of Mr. Eddy's Assemblies, at Masonic Hall; and we shall now make a brief sketch of the evening's brilliant entertainment, from our "notes of observation." We were simply "lookers on in Venice," and did not participate in the healthy and innocent amusement; of course, we are entirely impartial in our opinion, as we were not acquainted with any of the fair ones present. There were many whom we did not know by sight, and whose graces we should record, if we had the pleasure of their names; but all that was interesting in that single evening, cannot be told in one article;—so we shall reserve the balance for a future occasion.

Women as fair, and men as brave, as ever assembled to pay court to Dame Terpsichore, were gathered in the Hall, all arrayed in beautiful dresses, characteristic of exquisite taste and judgment. There was the dark-eyed one, of the languishing, dreamy look, whose movements were as graceful as the undulations of the wave at eve-time in summer; and the blue-eyed one, with auburn locks and agile motions, who seemed the creature of another sphere.

"Like a star
Lost on the brow of day."

There was one whose sweet smile, soft, gentle eye, and peach like cheeks, gave her an interest all unearthly; and the whole appearance of her face, and the soft cadence of her voice was

"Like the music
From harps where angels dwell."

Dancing commenced about 9 o'clock, and at that time, the Hall was comfortably filled. Of the gentlemen present, it is unnecessary to speak at any length; they were as neat and as spruce as polished patent-leather shoes, white kid gloves, and white vests could make them.

Partners were selected and arranged on the floor, and at a given signal from Mr. Eddy, the electrifying notes of music rolled through the hall, and every form was in motion. And as they passed through the various movements of the Quadrille, our eyes rolled from centre to circumference, admiring the beauty of the scene, taking the impressions which we now write out.

We were particularly pleased with Miss M—, whose rosy cheeks, dark hair and sparkling eyes, rendered her an object of peculiar attraction; her graceful form moved around in the dance, with an ease and self-possession all her own,—we saw no better dancer in the Hall. The charming little Miss M—, in her airy lawn dress, with short sleeves, and those beautiful curls, had a smile for all. Miss B—, whose shawl fell gracefully over her shoulders and arms, at the commencement of the dance, possessed an eye that spoke volumes, and a look that tells how well she knows how to win hearts. The graceful Miss K—, whose pink and white dress was very becoming, glided around like a fairy, and danced with an ease not often witnessed. Then there was the noble and queenly Miss B—, dressed purely in white, with a delicate red and white head dress,—her motions were light and graceful, and in the waltz, she was surpassed by none, and equalled by few, if any. Queenly in her step, she commanded the admiration of all, and yet her every motion was sylph-like and perfect, with the ease and grace of a spirit. Miss P—, whose slender form was arrayed in pink, with a neat rosette on the back of her head, danced finely, at times resting her left hand on her side, appeared to decided advantage. Mr. S— and Miss M— waltzed easily and prettily, and were not at all confused. The Misses B—, queen and chorub, waltzed charmingly, and were the observed of all observers. Miss S—, who was said to be the belle of the hall last winter, at this same Hall, had a very modest expression, and the gentleness of her face was pleasing.

The amiable and sweet face of Mrs. C— won our admiration; her finely moulded form moved gracefully in the Contra Dance—Money Musk, and her easy, regular style of dancing was very pleasing. The gay and lively Mrs. C— did not join the dance, but she appeared to enjoy the scene. The little Miss S—, with regular features and exquisite form, did not arrive until late, but she amply made up for all lost time.

There were many others whom we did not know, and many whom we shall notice more particularly, the next time we attend. But a portion of our work is yet unperformed; it will, of course, be expected that we shall designate the belle of the evening. Ah! here is an unwelcome task. How can we do it, for they were all so graceful and lovely, that our eyes were lost in a sea of beauty; but we formed an opinion, and we shall express it. There was some doubt, among the gentlemen present, whether Miss B—, or Miss M—, deserved the crown,—and although they were both very lovely, and charmingly beautiful, still, we award the chaplet to the former, all things considered. There, young ladies, now exercise your guessing propensities.—We cannot close this article, without saying a word in favor of these social parties given by Mr. Eddy. While all the etiquetteal rules of the ball-room are strictly observed in these parties, there is none of that stiffness and reservation so often witnessed at those fashionable gatherings, and which render them unpleasant. Here, all acquire and maintain polite and agreeable manners, and there is certainly no better school, than meetings of this kind, to train and polish the young and advancing generation. Here, the systematic courtesy of the ball room, and the easy sociability of the parlor, are blended in beautiful harmony.

—the Woburn Gazette calls down east girls, 'corn fed roses.' What a simile.

AMERICAN POLICY.—The spirit of the age is progressive, and national as well as individual aim seems to be to grasp continually for all that is within reach, rather than cultivate, improve and perfect that which is possessed. We do not deem such a course politic, wise or expedient; and all past history shows us most conclusively that, in a national point of view, such a policy is conceived in error, and executed by a misguided judgment. The true policy of all liberal Republics, and particularly our own, is to nurture and protect its noble institutions, and to bring them to the greatest possible perfection, thus benefitting all within the range of its government, and rendering the Republic itself, a beautiful and appropriate model for all the nations of the earth,—and especially those which we claim to be superior to. Hence the question naturally arises, does not our government possess sufficient territory already, for all national and expedient purposes; and does not our true conservative policy consist in perfecting those institutions which we boast of, as being the noblest and best on earth,—and cultivating and improving the whole soil which we now possess,—rather than in grasping for more and further lands, while we already have more than we can well and prudently improve? But history tells us, in most unequivocal terms, that the ancient Republics of the old world, flourished well, and prospered to an astonishing extent, so long as their policy was sound and wholesome; but as soon as the great men of those nations became generally corrupt and dishonest, and indulged in a speculative and secular spirit, to the disparagement of the nation's welfare and best interest,—and endeavored to possess foreign territories, and make conquests of weaker nations, even by the sword,—they at once fell from the high and enviable position which they once occupied,—and, by internal revolutions, and the rapid increase of national decay,—they speedily passed to that chaotic night, where they have since slumbered, the by-word of more prudent nations, and a fearful warning to unworthy national ambition. Their theory of government, although differing materially from our own, was indeed splendid and stupendous, and as well suited to the spirit of that age, as ours is to the present; and we cannot truly attribute their downfall to ignorance, or the mental darkness of the men of that day. No, far from it. That age produced giant and accomplished minds, and its great men gave the most indubitable evidence of brilliant genius and splendid talent, of such a high order, that no subsequent period has produced their equals. Their works, even at this day, are models of all that is beautiful in literature, and perfect in art; and although we are blessed with light which they did not have,—still, there was a mental power and energy in the minds of the great statesmen and orators of that age, which we have never attained. May we not, therefore, learn a lesson by their imprudence, and take warning by their misfortune? Most surely we ought to. These are matters which but few of the American people ever think of; and if occasionally they do suggest themselves to the minds of the more prudent and conservative, they are speedily dismissed again, as matters almost entirely unimportant, and wholly disconnected with our perfect and indissoluble Republic. This is anything but the instruction of wisdom, and may yet call forth our deepest and most poignant regret, that a sound judgment had not earlier dictated a wiser policy, upon which we had acted. Remorse will then be as vain and futile, as masses which are repeated over the senseless dead.

✂ The Daily News may be obtained at Gorr's News Room, every morning, as soon as issued.

WARLIKE.—It was announced by Mr. Draper, in the Canadian House of assembly, June 2, that the British Government had shipped for the militia of Canada, 35,000 percussion muskets. The Burnhope-side, from London, expected shortly, is said to be freighted with 250 thirty-two pounders, shot, shell and powder, for that colony.

✂ We regret to learn that Col. Greene, the gentlemanly Editor of the Boston Post, is sick with the brain fever. He has been dangerously ill; and it was feared, at one time, that he could not recover. We are happy to say, however, that he is now convalescent, and it is thought that he will be restored to health again soon.

DOMESTIC STRAWBERRIES.—RIDER received yesterday, from Wickford, some of the fairest looking, and largest Strawberries, by far, of any that we have seen this year. They are put up very nice, in neat round boxes, holding about three pints each. He is to receive a fresh lot, of the same kind, every day.

THE CRAFT LOOKING UP.—We observe by an article in the Jersey City Sentinel, that our old friend, SPARROW D. MACDONALD, late associate publisher of the New London Democrat, has commenced the practice of Dentistry, in the village of Williamsburg, L. I. Since Mr. Macdonald retired from the printing business, he has been studying with Dr. J. L. Straton, in New York City, who is a very celebrated Dentist; and from what we know of Mr. Macdonald's mechanical skill, we think he will acquire some celebrity himself. Success to him.

✂ The largest tree known in Mexico, and the one on which Dr. Caudelle made his estimate of this continent, is a cypress, and is 118 feet in circumference. The celebrated chestnut on Mount Etna is 163 feet in circumference, but is evidently composed of five trunks.

✂ The Steamers, built for the Mexican Government, have been purchased by the United States, and will be immediately armed and equipped. The three schooners, Barita, Petret, and Reofer, will be delivered at the Navy Yard, Brooklyn, next week, and be at once armed and dispatched.

✂ Persons who write articles for a newspaper, should always observe the following rules:—Never write on more than one side of your paper, and be careful to write a plain and legible hand; by thus doing, you will save Editors a great deal of trouble. We frequently have to copy our correspondents' communications, and it occupies our time, when we have much else to do.

✂ A Steamboat for Matamoras, is advertised in New Orleans, on the strength of the rumored taking of that city.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ELECTION.—The Legislature, in Convention, on Friday last, elected Gen. Anthony Colby, the whig candidate, Governor for the ensuing year, by a majority of 21 votes. The vote stood—

FIRE.—We learn from the Providence Journal, of yesterday, that the Cotton Factory of Samuel Hopkins, in Exeter, was struck by lightning, last Friday night, and destroyed with all its contents. The loss is estimated at $6,000. It was insured at the Ethna office for $3,300.

ELEANOR JERAULD, an old woman, has been bound over in Providence, to take her trial before the U. S. Circuit Court, in this town, the 15th of this month, for an alleged attempt at fraud on the Pension office, at Washington.

✂ A lad named Elisha Paine, was playing under a sand bank in Providence, last Saturday afternoon, when the bank suddenly gave way, and he was instantly killed.

✂ Elijah Loring, Jr., of Barnstable, while gunning upon the salt meadows, killed, at one shot, forty-four large red breasts.—Bos. Post.

The Post man ought to have a jack knife.

EDWIN FOREST.—This distinguished tragedian recently announced from the Dublin Stage, that it was his intention to make a professional tour through the United States, and then retire to private life. He is a star of which America is justly proud; and he has won imperishable laurels for his brow.

✂ The war in Mexico has been dramatized, in Philadelphia.

BY TO-DAY'S MAIL.

EIGHT DAYS LATER FROM THE ARMY.

The steamship Galveston arrived at New Orleans on the 29th ult., bringing Intelligence from Point Isabel to the 27th, eight days later.

On the 17th inst., a large portion of Gen. Taylor's army moved up the river for the purpose of crossing. Gen. T. remaining at the fortification with about three hundred men. As the army was seen by the Mexicans on the opposite side to leave the encampment and approach the ford, Arista sent a flag of truce to Gen. Taylor, requesting an armistice of six weeks, giving as a reason for his request, that he desired to communicate with his government. Gen. T. answered that he would give him till 8 o'clock the next morning to evacuate the city of Matamoras, and would permit him to take the public property under his charge. The flag then returned. On the next day, (the 18th,) the army crossed on flats of their own construction; and the bodies of wagons caulked. The passage was made about four miles above Fort Brown. On his arriving at the city, it was discovered that Arista with his forces had departed, leaving only the mounted batteries.

All of the mortars and such of the military apparatus as could not be removed, in their haste to escape, were thrown into the wells. A party from our army went out to reconnoitre, immediately after the entrance of Matamoras, and overtook a portion of the retreating Mexicans, twenty-two of whom were made prisoners. It is understood that Arista's Head Quarters are at San Fernando, about ninety miles distant from Matamoras.

The Mexican soldiers, it is said, refused to defend Matamoras against the American army, having had no rations served out to them for five days.

Gen. Taylor issued orders to his army not to take anything from the inhabitants, without paying full value. The citizens of Matamoras are permitted to transact business as usual, with the exception of selling strong drinks.

The amount of money found in the Mexican army-chest, after the battle of the 9th, was, it is said, $16,000 in gold.

It was rumored that the Mexican army had retreated to Camargo, about 200 miles from Matamoras, it is supposed for reinforcements.

The Galveston, on her passage to the seat of war, was the scene of a terrible murder—a man named Robert Mitchell, of the McKelvey Guards, having stabbed one of his comrades named William Mulloy. The murderer was instantly put in irons, and placed in close custody immediately upon their arrival at Point Isabel.

The Picayune has a letter, dated Point Isabel, May 6th, in which we find the following items:

Ampudia's defeat on the 8th and 9th has ruined the Mexican army now in the north. They have lost everything—mules, pack-saddles, ammunition, arms; and men enough to strike terror to their hearts.

The Com'd Gen. has ordered that "the blockade of the Rio Grande, will be considered as raised in regard to all vessels bringing cargoes for merchants in Matamoras, except such as contain munitions of war of any description."

✂ Mr. J. N. Grigon, of the steamer Rhode Island, will please accept our thanks for New York papers.

✂ The military expenditures of our Government, at the present time, is five hundred thousand dollars a day. This is one of the beauties of war!

✂ A son of Sir Robert Peel, was among the visitors at the White House, Washington, last Wednesday evening.

✂ Mr. Sawyer, of Ohio, has addressed a note to the editor of the New Bedford Mercury, in which he denies having eaten bread and sausages, in the House of Representatives, as charged by the correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune.

CONGRESSMEN FROM TEXAS.—The legislature of Texas has declared Hon. David S. Kaufman duly elected to represent the First District of Texas in Congress, and Hon. T. Pillsbury the Second. The latter was elected by a majority of only 43, the former by a majority of 940.

91. 10,000 DOLLARS REWARD. 91.

You will excuse, kind reader, the above innocent deception to induce you to read this advertisement, as it is for your benefit as well as our own.

RE-OPENING OF THE UNITED STATES CLOTHING STORE.

A still greater revolution in the sale of READY MADE CLOTHING. New Store and new Goods, at the old stand, where the public have been favored with so many good bargains. 91 Thames street, one door north of Messrs. W. B. & E. J. SWAY'S.

THE PROPRIETOR of this Establishment has the pleasure of informing the people of Newport and its vicinity, that he has leased the new and commodious store, 91 Thames street, for the purpose of carrying on the Ready Made Clothing Business, where the public may be assured that they will always find on hand the largest assortment of Clothing and Furnishing Goods in the place, as well as the lowest prices. If I can but induce the people to call upon me, I will give them the most positive proof of the truth of this assertion, as I am determined to secure for the United States Clothing Store a tremendous run of custom, and, aware as I am, that competition is so severe, that the only mode of success is to offer my Goods at a small advance on Cost. Will the people call upon me? I will give them the most positive and pleasing evidence of what I say; still more, I will not urge them with undue persuasion to purchase what they do not want. The custom of forcing goods upon people has become so prevalent that they are sorely perplexed to know where they can go and be allowed the use of their own judgment in selection of Goods. Radway's Chinese Medicated Soap.

may truly be said to be one of the most valuable, as well as the most scientific and useful invention for the health, comfort, and convenience of the human family, that mankind has ever been blessed with. As an alleviator and preventer of pain, or irritation occasioned by the bites or stings of Musquitoes, or other poisonous insects, this invaluable Soap is indeed a treasure. By applying it to the parts affected, it immediately abstracts the poison, allays the irritation, and protects the sufferer from all further annoyance from these troublesome insects.

TO THE LADIES.

We would particularly recommend this inestimable Soap to their notice. It is equally adapted to all toilet purposes, and is far superior, as a purifier of the skin, to all Powders, under whatever name they may be called, as it is for medicinal applications; for while it softens and beautifies the complexion, it removes every vestige of Tan, Pimples, Blisters, Pustules, and all other blemishes of the skin, and, in fact, all cutaneous eruptions. No lady's toilet is complete without this valuable Soap; and no other article of the Toilet is required, when you have this in your possession. None are so beautiful, but what this Soap will improve.
